The sustainability landscape is changing rapidly, and seismic shifts are taking place across industries and sectors as the world seeks to tackle the climate emergency, the loss of nature and mounting inequality. As sustainability goes mainstream, there is a corresponding need for more talent to supply innovative solutions and undertake responsible practices for business to survive and thrive in this new operating environment.

In other words, fundamental to the shift towards a more sustainable future is people. Your people. And in the context of an ever-changing and evolving sustainability landscape, continued education is an essential catalyst for advancing the sustainability agenda within your company. It is also important to encourage individuals to cultivate curiosity, unlearn old habits, and adapt to changing circumstances. Education and learning are essential ingredients to creating profitable solutions for people and planet.

The WBCSD Leadership Program educates all business functions on sustainability challenges and opportunities that feed into strategic business decision-making. We recognize that as sustainability is not a static target but a dynamic and evolving goal, the challenges we face today require innovative thinking, interdisciplinary collaboration and a deep understanding of the interconnectedness between business and the world around us. With 20 years of excellence, the Leadership Program has provided key insights and cutting-edge research to representatives from nearly 150 companies on assessing risks, identifying opportunities, and developing strategies that reconcile growth with social and environmental stewardship. We are always inspired by the innovative ideas, concrete solutions, and lasting relationships from the fearless business leaders who participate.

WBCSD is proud to deliver this curriculum in partnership with Yale University and IMD, as well as in collaboration with our member companies, who represent the world’s leading businesses working collectively to accelerate the system transformations needed for a net zero, nature-positive and more equitable future.

So, let us embark on this journey together, where knowledge becomes our most potent tool, and learning becomes the driving force behind the advancement of the sustainability agenda in your company. Together, we can create a dynamic community of business leaders to raise their ambition for a better world, deliver speed at action and scale in their operations and value chains and sharpen the accountability of their performance.

We welcome you to join us in accelerating the system transformations needed for a brighter tomorrow.

Positive impact for companies

Improved leadership skills:
The WBCSD Leadership Program is designed to develop the skills needed to be a sustainable development leader. Participants will learn about different leadership styles, communication, decision-making, and strategies. By improving their leadership skills, participants will be better equipped to guide and motivate their team, resulting in making informed decisions that benefit the company and improved team performance.

Increased employee engagement:
Leaders who have undergone leadership training are better equipped to inspire and engage with others. They will have a better understanding of what motivates their team and how to create a positive work environment. This can lead to higher levels of employee engagement, which can result in increased employee retention and improved business outcomes.

Enhanced partnerships:
The WBCSD Leadership Program provides opportunities for participants to network with other leaders. This can lead to sharing and learning good practices, to new partnerships, and collaborations that can benefit the company.

Elevated levels of sustainability awareness:
Participants walk away with knowledge on the latest sustainability insights and trends, with actionable learning that they can implement in their day-to-day work. This helps mainstream sustainability within the organization and supports change to move faster and further in climate, nature and equity action.

“At Holcim, we send changemakers to the WBCSD Leadership Program every year. It’s a unique platform to learn from peers and world class experts, from the United Nations and financial institutions to other companies on the latest sustainability “hot topics”. As an alumni, I recommend it as an opportunity to expand sustainability capabilities and leadership to accelerate the transition to a net positive future.”
